He married DRUCILLA HAMMONS 17 Feb 1812 in Floyd County, Kentucky, daughter of JOSEPH HAMMONS. She was born 1790, and died 12 Jan 1867.

Notes for JAMES WASHINGTON CRAFT:

Here is what Joella Craft Collier wrote in her book, A Family Called Craft, pg. 30:

“James was born before 1794, in Floyd County, Kentucky, he married Drusilla Hammons, a daughter of Joseph Hammons, who was born about 1790 and died 12 January 1867. James purchased a Kentucky land warrant on 24 February 1821 on the North Fork Kentucky River and appears on the Perry/Letcher tax lists from 1821-1849. In the 1830-1840 censuses for Perry County the James Craft family appears; however, in the 1850 Letcher County census Drusilla is listed as head of household and a widow. It is thought that James left his family, for he died in Wayne County, Kentucky in December 1879, having been a resident of that county but two years. There were a James and a John Craft in Cumberland County (not far from Wayne) in the 1840 census. Were they our James and John? At this point we have no documentation. One family member relates that on one occasion, a son of James met his father on the road, and the son refused to acknowledge his father’s presence.”

Notes for JAMES W. CAUDILL:

From Anthony "Tony" Blair's research:

During the Civil War soldiers came to their home in search of food. They scaled the fence surrounding the hen house, raided the hen's nests, and ate the eggs raw. They searched the house for more food, looking everywhere that food could be hidden, even in clothes hanging from pegs on the wall. Then the soldiers took five large pieces of meat out of the smoke house, rammed their rifle bayonets through the meat, slung their rifles over their shoulders, and left.
